

School of Shamanic Homoeopathy

A course integrating homoeopathy with Anthroposophical medicine, Chinese medicine, Astrology, Esoteric science, allied therapies (Herbalism, Flower essences, Crystals, Shamanism, Meditation), Anatomy and Pathology

Course Ethos

The course is designed and taught to allow your unique consciousness relationship to the many remedies to develop. There is no One school of homeopathy or healing. Each student should seek to develop his/her own philosophy of homoeopathy and vibrational healing, within the framework that is taught. This course is very much about personal self-development as well as knowledge pertaining to homoeopathy and medicine.

Intake

A fresh intake for the course, which is part-time, starts on selected years during September, with 10 weekend attendance sessions, class times Sat and Sun are 11am to 5pm. The next 1st year enrolment will be in September 2020. The course lasts 3 years. There is a break in the summer and over Christmas. There is some opportunity for students to have hands-on supervised experience seeing patients. The class lecture dates are listed in the enclosed timetable, note the relevant column for your intake year. Any weekends a student is not able to attend can be compensated by having the notes available and missed classes can be attended at the equivalent session of following intake years.

Enrolment

Enrolment to the course can be completed by posting or emailing the paper application form provided within the course pack. Alternatively an online application is available on the website www.shamanic-homoeopathy.com or email us for an application pack.

Cost

The course fee for the Sept 2020 academic intake is planned £1600 per year; payment is flexible and can be as installments (e.g. monthly). VAT payment does not apply. No deposit is required before the course start. This fee may be subject to change in accordance with inflation and costs, and does not include extra charges for materials, remedies and books purchased by students.

Teaching

Most of the teaching is lecture based in the weekends. There are occasional 'field trips', such as further exploration of plant flora at Kew Gardens, Chelsea Physic Garden, Hunterian museum for medical/surgical pathology, Natural History museum for zoology study, and British Museum for mythology-based teaching. There is ample opportunity for experiencing the provings of new homoeopathic remedies. A computerised repertory system is available for students' use on the premises.

Comprehensive course notes are provided. Some extra charges apply for materials packs and any audio material. The teaching includes small group and meditation sessions to develop intuitive as well as the intellectual skills. Much of the course emphasizes personal and spiritual development with learning of specific healing and meditation techniques. Clinical training includes patients as clinical cases studies. College resources include anatomical plastic models, various teaching computer software is used, including for the astrology module.

A reference library exists and a range of books are available at discounted prices. The training will allow students to understand how to deal with medical conditions with knowledge. We see the School as having an important role in the future of developing homoeopathy combined with both medical awareness and spirituality.

After graduation

The course will lead to a Diploma in Homoeopathy, D.S.H. The School of Shamanic Homoeopathy has been approved by the Alliance of Registered Homeopaths and the Association of Natural Medicine with respect to the recognition of its graduates, and registration of graduates as professional homoeopaths is available through these bodies. The college is also a member of the Homoeopathic Course Providers Forum and achieved full Quality Assurance status through the accreditation process of this organisation.

The lead tutor

Dr. Yubraj Sharma (Course Principal)

I practice homoeopathy, herbalism, healing and acupuncture at the health centre in Wembley, London. I have a medical qualification, having experience in various hospital jobs and then training at The Royal London Homoeopathic Hospital, Great Ormond Street as regards the homoeopathy. I have the MF.Hom diploma of Membership of the Faculty of Homoeopathy. All this is just the beginning of a more expansive awareness of the infinite homoeopathic, herbal and essence vibrations available to me increasingly as we move into the New Age.

There are also sessional teachers, mentors and supervisors linked to the course to provide undergraduate and postgraduate support for clinical case studies and study groups.

The next pages summarise the course syllabus. A more detailed syllabus, code of ethics and student portfolio for course work and clinical evidence is given to students at course induction.

Course structure

The initial class includes an overview of the Spiritual path, the chakras, subtle bodies, ascension process & meditation techniques.

Portfolio

Students are encouraged to maintain a learning journal throughout the course, to record a wide variety of experiences. These include provings conducted, remedies made and taken, clinics and patients witnessed, research topics, meditation and healing insights, test results and so on. This provides a valuable continual self-reflective assessment.

Anatomy and physiology

Spiritual perspectives of anatomy (including anthroposophical and Chinese medical) are integrated with the 'standard' western perspective. There is an overview of all the systems, nervous, cardiovascular, respiratory, gastrointestinal, renal, endocrine, skeletal, reproductive etc. The detail will be up to a level almost to medical student, and will include pathology and an overview of many diseases. Anatomical plastic models and computer graphics will be used to help you understand the principles. Basic embryology and development of the foetus, as well as spiritual aspects of the birth process. Basic genetics and the new age spiritual changes in the genetic code. Training includes understanding one's own inner anatomy using guided meditations and healing techniques, thereby facilitating the ascension process.

Allopathic medicine

A grasp of pharmaceutical drugs, to understand their side effects, drug interactions and how to help clients (if with the assistance of their own doctors) come off them. Medical investigations and treatments the client may have had from the medical establishment. This is an area full of potential legal & ethical issues but it must nevertheless be faced and the School will try to help students approach the issue of drugs, surgery and medical intervention with confidence, for understanding medical language and thinking.

Spiritual medicine

The subtle causes of disease, including karmic, soul contracts, astrological factors, planetary and star influences, to foster the students ability to tune into the causes directly.

Homoeopathic medicine:

Principles of action on etheric and subtle realms, and the nature of substance on the inner planes of Spirit. Hands on making homoeopathic remedies. Taking a case history from the client and examination techniques (including examining the aura and subtle bodies). Principles of prescribing from classical, single & combination remedies, intuitive & repertorised prescribing and anthroposophical principles. Students are encouraged to try remedies and provings, and have consulting sessions with each other. Materia Medica of remedies to include all the usual remedies over the last 160 years as well as the new remedies being made now, from the mineral, plant, animal kingdoms and channelled. The School is itself making many new remedies and students are encouraged to explore these. Channelling skills to pick up the vibrations of the remedies will be emphasized, to help get to the essence of a remedy as well as the intellectual facts. Repertorization, or which remedies are used in which condition is taught from a practical and an intuitive standpoint. Standard repertorisation techniques are taught as well as keynote prescribing, drainage techniques, combination prescribing, miasmatic clearing among many other tools.

Herbal Medicine

Basic principles of prescribing, how to make tinctures and herbal combinations for various ailments & systems. This includes spagyric and alchemical methods. There is overlap here with use of mother tinctures in homoeopathic prescribing. The materia medica of about 150 western herbs is taught, with their uses, indications and qualities. Students will be able to try out the herbs. Spiritual botany is taught, to open understanding of subtle vibrational influences on plant leaf, root, flower and fruit processes. Much of this also integrates with anthroposophical & Chinese medical principles. The herbal training at present does not enable graduates to register with the newly developing herbal practitioner register, it is more suited as an understanding of homoeopathic mother tinctures.

Flower and Crystal essences

How to make essences and feel their vibrations. An overview of several flower essence ranges available from around the world, including crystal elixirs, alone or in combination with flower essences.

Starlight and Planetary elixirs

An overview of planet and star essences, their vibrations and how these affect Earth life. How to use them alone or along with other essences.

Spiritual and Shamanic healing

How to tune into Spirit and get It to heal the client. Channelling techniques will be taught to make your connection with the Spiritual planes stronger. Feeling the many mansion worlds of Earth, the many Nature Kingdoms and fostering multi-dimensional awareness. DNA and genetic healing with energy techniques. Learning and healing the connections between the subtle bodies. Helping clients to clear karmic burden. Light, colour and sound techniques in healing. Distance healing, space and environmental clearing techniques. Shamanic style soul retrieval and rescue work, using power animals and Earth energies.

Animal medicine

Teaching on spiritual aspects of zoology, theories of evolution – Darwinism versus Neogenesis, animal development and the relationship of the animal kingdom to the human kingdom. Understanding the role of the animal species studied within the context of a spiritual evolution. Thus understanding the action of homoeopathic remedies made from animal substances in the context of standard animal anatomy & physiology and spiritual evolution.

Astrology and Cosmology

Basic astrological principles will be taught and students have an opportunity to have their birth chart calculated. The nature of the solar system in relation to the birth process and to esoteric anatomy and physiology will be covered in the relevant sections of the course, with guided meditations to attune to each planet. The asteroids and hidden planets will also be examined. The star vibrations will be studied, in conjunction with the star elixirs and homoeopathic remedies based on these.

Suppliers

The School supplies students with bottles, pillules and remedies at trade prices and referees contracts with reputable suppliers of homoeopathics, herbs, bottles etc. There are remedy kits for students during the course, available at low cost, so prescribing practice can begin during the course. Each medicating bottle contains 10ml of remedy in 96% alcohol and can medicate up to 200 bottles of pills. Insurance can be arranged through brokers for prescribing students. Advice is given to students over the phone with respect to recommended remedies as ongoing support. During the course new remedies will also have been made by students. The course focuses on experiencing the remedies as much as possible in the classes. There is equipment available for dilution/succession manufacture of homoeopathic tinctures from mother tincture or solid material, and students learn these techniques in their 1st year.

Entrance requirements

The course is open to those without training in alternative medicine. Anyone without a qualification in biology will be guided through the anatomy and physiology. Students without much educational background have coped with the material very well.

Assessment

This is though a range of self-reflection, continuous assessment with homework & assignments and exam sessions. There are 5 case studies to provide by the end of the 3rd year. Students opt to also undertake an original thesis of a research topic of their interest. The key ingredient throughout is the self-reflective appraisal by the student - fostering future self-reflective practice.

Registration as Homoeopathic Practitioner

Upon meeting the course assessments, graduates are able to register with nominated regulatory bodies for homoeopathic practitioners, such as the Alliance of Registered Homeopaths ARH. The course requirements for graduation include submission of 5 case studies, a portfolio of clinical training & assessments. The course provides ample opportunity to meet these criteria.

Course venue

World of light Ltd, 102 Chaplin Road, Willesden, London NW2 5PR. Directions/map to the venue are also provided upon enrolment. The nearest tube is Dollis Hill on the Jubilee line. There is parking on the street and surrounding residential area, not meter-controlled during the weekends. Generally the Saturday and Sunday sessions both run 11am to 5pm. The clinical teaching sessions vary according to patient bookings.
